What's New in the Postscript To Text Converter?

Postscript to Text Converter is a Fast and Easy way to convert Postscript and EPS documents to ASCII text files. The program uses COM to extract font and text information from the Postscript or EPS file and convert it into clean, WYSIWYG formatted text files. The Text files maintain original layout, as well as any existing links in the Postscript file, even if these are only internal to Postscript, or Postscript files which have been converted from other formats. This conversion format is not restricted to ASCII (text files) and can easily be created using any non-Windows OS such as UNIX, Linux or OS/2, depending on the processor platform the program is running on. This software package does not require installation of the Postscript interpreter used to create the original Postscript or EPS file. Once your Postscript and EPS files are converted using the software, the files can be viewed, printed, saved, or sent by mail.

permeability of the stratum corneum to intracellular cationic drugs. The influence of temperature, pH, and miconazole on the permeability of the stratum corneum to intracellular cationic drugs was investigated using a novel in vitro diffusion cell system. The diffusion cell setup used was designed to be small enough to be used as a viable alternative to dosing in vivo and is essentially a parallel plate diffusion system with a well of continuous cell culture medium for absorption of the drug. In vitro experiments were performed in synthetic skin substitutes, and permeability was determined from the cumulative amount (micrograms) of drug traversing the skin substitute. Drugs examined were miconazole
